J. A. Hudson, of Hattiesburg, Mississippi, arrived in our town last week and is visiting with his brother-in-law E. P. Dossier for a short time. Mr. Hudson, is a live energetic business man and it is possible he may conclude to locate in Deming.

What are the Yellow Kids going to do about that base ball tournament at the fair in Albuquerque October 12th. to 17th? There is a big chance to run away with a fat purse, and it costs nothing to enter. Besides Albuquerque will be a good town to be in during this fair. There is going to be more fun crowded into the five days than comes to the average man in as many years.

Dr. W. E. Schott is pleased to mention the fact that Dr. W. E. Spence of Iowa has bought his practice. He comes as an ethical practitioner and I hope the people of Deming will show him the kindness they have me, the Dr. will continue in the same place of business occupied by me, Dr. and Mrs. Spence will reside in the residence I have occupied and will make their home among you.

Dr. W. E. Schott.

Obituary.

Paschal R. Smith Jr., only son of Paschal R. Smith and wife of this city, was born near Bryan Texas 29 years ago and died of heart failure, Sunday September 13th, 1903. The remains were taken to Downey California and laid to rest in the burying ground of his mother's people, that also being the home of her brother, Dr. Julius C. Kendrick, and his family.

After attending various preparatory schools in the east and California he entered Stanford University in the fall of 1895 and graduated from that institution with the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1899. He then joined his family in New York city and in April 1900 became the senior member of the firm of Smith & Rogers Real estate dealers. During his college days at Stanford he became a member of the Delta Tau Delta College Fraternity. While an active member of his college chapter he was one of the hardest and most enthusiastic of its Fraternity workers. In these days he attracted to himself many warm friends from among his Fraternity brethren and others. These friendships he held in after life by virtue of his qualities of loyalty, honor and truth.

In the spring of 1901 his health compelled him to return to Deming. His business and social life here, and the qualities he displayed in both relations, are too well known to his fellow citizens to require extended comment here. He leaves a circle of friends that sincerely regret his untimely call and that deeply sympathize with his bereaved family.

Departed.

Last Sunday the Angel of death made its unwelcome visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mahoney and bore away the spirit of little Anna their second daughter. The sad news fell like a shadow of a dark cloud on the community as Anna was known and loved by all, she having been born, and lived the whole of her short life in Deming, and was a favorite with both old and young. Several months ago she began to suffer with heart trouble and her mother took her to California early in the summer with the hope of finding relief in the lower altitude, and for a time it appeared to have the desired result, but shortly after their return she was taken worse and the end came in a few days. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Father Morin from the undertaking parlors at 4 o'clock on Monday afternoon, the floral tributes were abundant and beautiful, and at the grave a class of her school mates covered the little casket with flowers as a last tribute of love to their friend and companion. The sorrow and sympathy of the entire community was evidenced by the large attendance at the funeral as it could be in no other way, there scarcely being a person in the town who could leave but that went to the grave. In sympathy with the sorrowing relatives we can only say "Another voice is singing, another harp, a beckoning over there."
